What to Expect:

There are many ways to lead. Many of us have worked under, heard about, studied, and probably tried to emulate many of these differing leadership styles. Some believe that they must adapt their approach to mirror a leader they admire in order to be successful. Much can be learned from others, but it can be difficult to model your leadership approach completely after someone else's. In this session our speaker will be discussing a leadership approach rooted in who you are and what matters most to you. We will discuss:

- Basic principles of Values Based Leadership
- Perspectives, learnings and examples from his own journey
- How to trust who you are and your values to guide you

Speaker: Paul Mooty

Paul Mooty is the Vice Chairman and Partner of the Faribault Woolen Mill Company. His professional career has included working in the tax department of Arthur Andersen & Company and in the private practice of law focusing on closely held businesses. He also served as President and CEO of Custom Rock, a St. Paul based manufacturer and architectural concrete contractor. Paul is actively involved with a number of other business interests including serving on the Board of Directors of several companies. He received a BSB degree in Business from the Carlson School of Management at the University of Minnesota and a Juris Doctor degree from the University of Minnesota Law School. A born and raised Minnesotan, Paul is an active longtime member of the Edina Rotary Club.
