

KC GAMES FOR GOOD

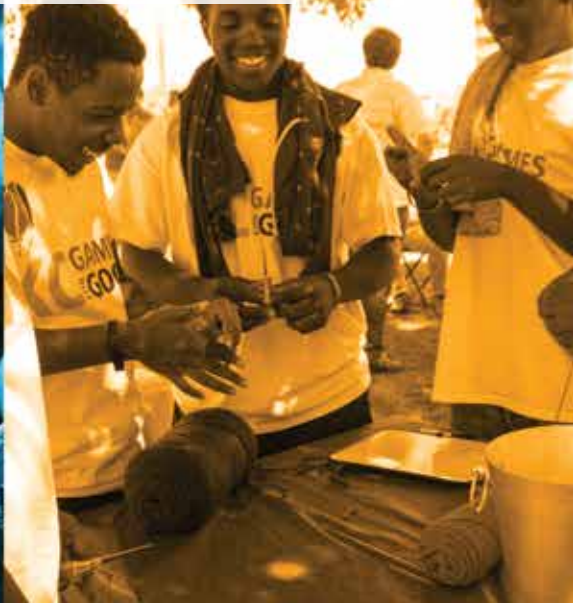

Good Works. Let's Celebrate!

2016 CALL FOR EXHIBITORS

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1

Presented by:

KC Games for Good is a one-day event intended to showcase – and to celebrate – that sense of community service and civic pride for which both Kansas City and the Plaza Rotary Club are so well known.

Hosted on the lawn of the National WWI Museum and Memorial, the festival brings together a host of activities and resources under the common banner of “Service Above Self.”

The event includes:

- Exhibit Area
- Team Competitions
- Entertainment and other activities

EXHIBIT AREA

Does your organization offer products or services to the Kansas City community? Do you want to showcase what you do in a community-wide, family-friendly event that recognizes and celebrates good works?

By partnering with the Kansas City Plaza Rotary Club as an exhibitor, you can:

- Broaden awareness of your mission
- Support community volunteerism
- Expose families to service opportunities
- Network with like-minded organizations who may be potential partners

In addition, a few select organizations will have the opportunity to participate in the Team Competitions and Kids Scavenger Hunt.

Each exhibit area includes a designated 10'x10' space with one 6' skirted table and two chairs.

Corporate Exhibitor – $250

Nonprofit Exhibitor – No charge

Additional resources available:

10' x 10' open tent – $250

Electricity – $100

Skirted table – $15

Additional chairs – $5 ea.

Exhibitor participation is at the discretion of event organizers.

WHO SHOULD EXHIBIT?

Nonprofit Organizations

In 2015, this included organizations such as Hope House, Harvesters–The Community Food Network, Heart to Heart International and Saint Luke’s Health System.

Commercial Service Providers

This has included local companies like Hendrickson Tree Care, MAC Water Technologies and State Farm Insurance.

Government Services/Agencies

Kansas City Fire Department and Police Department personnel provided displays of emergency response equipment and procedures. The Kansas City Health Department and Office of Emergency Management have also participated.

“The Games were a blast! Our team, composed of family and friends, competed in friendly, energetic games with other teams from the community. We also enjoyed the opportunity to express our appreciation to our community’s first responders. We had such a great day that we are already planning to attend and participate again next year! See you there!”

Team Captain, 2014 & 2015

In 2015, State Farm Insurance used its booth area to offer face painting for children. While waiting, parents could also enter a drawing for a television.

Shelterbox uses its display area to set up a sample tent and display the additional resources available in each emergency relief shipment.

In 2014, Heart to Heart provided its Mobile Medical Unit for display. In 2015, they supplemented this with a booth area in which they displayed the contents of their Care Kits. In addition, they were one of the Title Agencies involved in the Team Competitions.

WHAT ARE THE GAMES?

The Games are competitive events in which teams of volunteers race to complete assignments that reflect the activities of participating title agencies.

In 2015, this included:

- Trench Games
- Puppy Power
- Clean Water Relay
- First Responder Scavenger Hunt
- Relief Aid Race

OTHER ACTIVITIES

A number of other activities are available to keep families and other attendees entertained. In 2015, for example:

- Bikers Against Child Abuse roared in on motorcycles to open the event.
- The Kids Scavenger Hunt sent younger attendees scrambling through the exhibit area to accomplish similar tasks.
- Food Trucks and Beverage Tent offered refreshments and an area for relaxation.
- The Kansas City Kite Club showed off a number of special-shapes kites and helped youngsters fly more "normal" kites as well.
- Local mascots Sluggerrr and K.C. Wolf were on hand for photos with children of all ages.

All against a glorious backdrop view over downtown Kansas City!
